FORD'S CONTROL OF SHOALS NOW BELIEVED NEAR

Manufacturer's Chances For Water Power Booming.

Washington, July 10.—The prospects of Henry Ford's getting ultimate control of the government's nitrate and water power project at Muscle Shoals, Ala., were booming today.

The action of Senator Ladd, Republican, North Dakota, in sponsoring Ford's offer in the senate was looked upon today as an indication that middlewestern Republicans would join with southern Democrats in supporting the latest Ford contract. Ladd broke a long silence on the offer to declare today he was "favorable to it."

"I believe Ford, in his revised offer, has met all objections previously made to it with the single exception of the 100 years lease," said Ladd, "I think I can say I am in favorable to it in its present form."

In support of Ladd's position Sen Harrel, Republican, Oklahoma, declared he would probably vote for the Ford offer if the Detroit manufacturer would reduce his 100 year lease period to 50 years. Harrel said he thought the new Ford contract contained a proper fertilizer guarantee but that he was in favor of reducing the lease to 50 years.

OHIO STATUTE IS "SCRAP OF PAPER" SAYS WANAMAKER

Declares Supreme Court Decision Nullifies the Act.

Columbus, July 10.—That the Ohio statute designed to safeguard dangerous machinery and protect the lives and limbs of employees is "nothing but a scrap of paper and is dead as an operating force to protect the employee," so long as a recent decision of the State Supreme Court stands is the assertion of State Judge Wanamaker in an opinion, made public here today, vigorously dissenting from the decree handed down by the Buckeye state's highest tribunal on May 16, last, affirming the action of the Lucas County Common Pleas Court which dismissed the damage suit filed by Frank Sniegowski against the Toledo Cooker Co.

Sniegowski was employed in the operation of a heavy punching press which unexpectedly descended, crushing and mangling one of Sniegowski's hands. Not content with partial and limited compensation provided by the Ohio Workmen's compensation act, Sniegowski filed suit, alleging violation of a lawful requirement on the part of his employer. He pleaded that he had been peremptorily ordered to work on a dangerous machine, in defective condition and wholly unguarded, in violation of the state statute intended to safeguard dangerous machinery and protect the lives and limbs of employees.

The supreme Court decision was supported by four of the seven members of that tribunal who held that the law imposes only a common law duty—ordinary care—holding the employer only for common law liability.

"It is not a civil lawful requirement, clearly, it is not a criminal lawful requirement," though, upon its face it purports to be," said Judge Wanamaker. "This loss of the statute results in a great and irreparable loss to Sniegowski and represents a much greater and more irreparable loss to the army of working people in the shops and factories."

Fifth Person Near Death After Trestle Accident

Four Meet Instant Death When They Are Caught Between Interurban Cars and Hurled Into Gully Forty Feet Below.

Cleveland, July 10.—Olga Vadacs, 20, is hovering between life and death in the Lakewood hospital, while four others, one her sister, are dead, the result of being caught between two interurban cars on the Lake Shore Electric last night and hurled off a trestle into a gully forty feet below. The accident occurred near stop 24, which is close to the village of Dover, west of Cleveland. The dead are: Manuel Moskowitz, 29, Elizabeth Moskowitz, 16, Jolan Moskowitz, 22, Irene Vadacs, 22.

Another member of the party, a young sister of the three Moskowitz victims, saw her sisters, brother and friend killed and was in a serious condition this morning from shock.

The victims had been attending a picnic given by the American Hungarian sokol at Stop 22. Apparently hoping to be assured of a seat in the crowded car back to the city, they started to walk the half mile west to stop 24. Between these two stops is a trestle 200 feet in length. No cars were in sight when they began the walk across the trestle, but while making their way across cars appeared in both directions. Confused, the members of the party, from one track to the other, only to be hit and hurled to the gulley below.

One of the cars, Cleveland bound, picked up two of the injured girls, but they died before they reached the city.

She claimed that Milligan did not tell her he was a married man with a family until they reached Boston. "It was too late to turn back then," she said.

PRESIDENT DELIVERS ULTIMATUM TO MINERS AND OPERATORS

ARBITRATE OR LOSE CONTROL SAYS HARDING

Compulsory Arbitration Of Government Seizure of Mines, Plan

STRIKERS TO RESUME

Men To Go Back Under Old Wage Scale Immediately.

Washington, July 10.—President Harding delivered the government's final ultimatum to the warring coal miners and operators today.

At a brief, tense session at the White House, the president flatly informed them that coal mining activities must be resumed at once and that they must permit the disputes which they apparently are unable to iron out to the arbitration of a commission appointed by the government.

The clear intimation was conveyed by the president that failure to agree to this would result in the government's making good on its threat of last week to seize the mines and operate them in the public interest.

This was made even more emphatic by the assertion of cabinet officers who described the president's talk as virtually tantamount to saying:

"Arbitration or seizure!"

The president gave the warring factions until tonight to inform him of their respective decisions. No answers were immediately forthcoming from either side. The operators announced they would caucus at once and the miners said they would caucus later in the day. The government will not be represented at either caucus.

The effect of the president's scheme, if agreed to by both sides, would be to establish a month's truce in the strike, or until August 10, during which arbitration would be given a thorough trial. At the end of that time, if an agreement were not reached, new steps would be considered.

The president proposed that the arbitration commission be composed of 11 members, here men from the miners three from the operators and five to be named by the president himself. This commission would be named immediately to begin its work.

The president also suggested that if the arbitration which he proposed was not successful that the present wage scale be held in force and production be continued until April 1, 1923.

This was regarded as a significant victory for the miners.

Washington, July 10.—Confronted with the gravest industrial emergency his administration has yet faced, President Harding was expected today to point the way out of the impending nation-wide coal famine. The president, according to spokesmen of the operators, will address a communication to the miners and operators in a joint conference today.

President Harding kept himself free of all engagements today so as to be ready for action in the emergency situation. His only engagement was an hour's conference with Secretary of Commerce Hoover, starting at 9 o'clock, an hour before the joint conference of miners and operators.

While the operators indicated that a proposition from the president had been made known to them by Secretary of Commerce Hoover in secret conference, the miners leaders professed ignorance of the move the administration contemplated. The miners leaders were emphatic, however, in announcing today that they "stand pat" in their demand for a national conference and that they would accept no plan which included wage reductions or elimination of the check off system.

From opinions expressed today in both camps of the warring coal men, it appeared certain that if both sides refused to heed the presidential edict, aimed at ending the coal strike, whatever the edict may be, the only means then left for the administration to meet the national emergency is seizure of the mines.

It was pointed out by miners leaders that the administration would think a long while before it took control of the mines. The mine leaders reasons for this statement were declared to be that the government is aware it could not force the miners to go to work even if it did seize the mines and that the government knows it would be placing itself in the position now occupied by the operators and be called upon to meet the same demands which the miners are now making upon the operators.

Some credence was placed in the operators camp today in the belief that President Harding will call for one of two things:

1—A truce under which the administration would take over temporary control of "key" mines, the miners to return to work immediately.

2—A truce under which the administration would take over temporary control of "key" mines, the miners to return to work immediately.

Railway Strike Expected To Reach Crisis Monday

Twelve Roads Plan to Re-open Shops With Non-Union Employes—National Guards Are Mobilized.

Chicago, July 10.—The strike of railway shopmen which began ten days ago was expected to reach a crisis today when twelve railroads planned to re-open their shops with non-union employes. National guard troops in six states were mobilized, ready for duty if needed, troops were on guard in two states and scores of deputy U. S. marshals were alert to prevent disorders.

The time limit set by the railroads for striking employes to return to work with loss of seniority expired today. Early reports indicated that few of the strikers were returning to their jobs.

Troops were on duty at Clinton, Ills., and at Parsons, Kas., snipers were reported to have fired from ambush upon soldiers doing sentinel duty at Clinton. No one was wounded, however. The situation was described as "peaceful" this morning by Sheriff Person.

The most critical situation in the Chicago district existed at Aurora Ills., where sweeping authority to prevent interference by strikers at the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy shops has been given U. S. Marshal Robert R. Levy, by Federal Judge George A. Carpenter. Reports that 1,500 union men planned to prevent the reopening of the Burlington shops led to fears of violence and scores of deputy marshals were mobilized to handle the situation.

Another critical situation existed at Bloomington, where it was feared that efforts to reopen the Chicago and Alton railway shops might lead to violence. Sheriff Jake Morrison reported that he had been unable to mobilize a force of deputies because citizens refused to protect strike breakers and declared that unless troops were sent in immediately he doubted his ability to control the situation. Acting Gov. Fred E. Sterling said that troops would not be sent to Bloomington without further inquiry into conditions there.

Union chief, and members of the U. S. railway labor board were apparently making no move today toward settlement of the controversy. So far as official circles are concerned the situation remains in status quo.

Railroads continued to claim practically uninterrupted train service but announcement by the train service brotherhoods, who have not joined in the walkout, that they will not move engines upon which repairs have been made, by strike breakers was looked upon as a complication that might hamper the operation of the roads.

Except for a few scattered acts of violence Sunday passed quietly.

CONGRESS READY TO SUPPORT CHIEF ON PATENT ACTION

Expect Number of Steps Will Be Taken By Administration

Washington, July 10.—Congress will support President Harding in his plan to restore $400,000,000 worth of German patents and property seized during the war, according to a canvas today of senate leaders.

The president's action in ordering suit brought against the Chemical Foundation for return of dye patents purchased for $250,000 after their seizure by the former alien property custodian, was looked upon as the first of a number of steps to be taken by the administration to restore seized German property. Congress, it was said, favored the passage of any legislation desired by the president to carry out his plan.

Senator King, Democrat, Utah, charged propaganda was being circulated from the religious viewpoint, will speak each morning on various phases of the general topic, "The Church and the Community." His subject tomorrow is to be "What is a Community?"

Bishop William M. Bell, of the United Brethren Church, Harrisburg Pa., will speak twice a day tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, on "Social Aspects of the Gospel," his topics for tomorrow to be "The Social Message of Jesus" and "Christianity and Social Reconstruction."

Other speakers on Tuesday's program are Dean Alfred Vivian and Professor C. E. Lively of the University, speaking respectively on "What is the Rural Problem?" and "The Church and Community Standards."

King declared there was no justification either in morals or in law for the transfer to the Chemical Foundation of the valuable property owned by German nationals and which was seized under a statute which provided the United States should hold the property as a sacred trust to be restored to its alien owners upon the termination of the war.

Some credence was placed in the operators camp today in the belief that President Harding will call for one of two things:

1—A truce under which the administration would take over temporary control of "key" mines, the miners to return to work immediately.

The nations are taking concerted action in the reparations crisis and a decision is expected with a few days," the premier added.

Berlin, July 10.—A double peril menaced the cabinet of Chancellor Wirth today.

First—violent opposition in the Reichstag to the defense of the republic bill.

Second—general pessimism over the result of Germany's request to the inter-allied reparations commission for a two year moratorium on cash indemnity payments.

The defense of the republic bill, which is aimed directly at the monarchists, was to be called up in the Reichstag this afternoon having been favorably reported by the judiciary committee.

The conservatives, especially the members from Bavaria, have publicly proclaimed their intention of making a bitter fight against the measure. Premier Lerchenfeld of Bavaria, in an exclusive interview with International News Service in Bavaria, already has served notice that Bavaria will not accept the measure because it would infringe Bavaria's sovereignty.

The steady decline of the mark and the admission of officials that the country's financial plight is so desperate that the government cannot continue paying reparations in gold have caused nation-wide pessimism. Labor is restive and further strikes are feared.

The next move in the finance indemnity situation will be made in Bloomington, where it was feared that efforts to reopen the Chicago and Alton railway shops might lead to violence. Sheriff Jake Morrison reported that he had been unable to mobilize a force of deputies because citizens refused to protect strike breakers and declared that unless troops were sent in immediately he doubted his ability to control the situation. Washington, July 10.—Congress will support President Harding in his plan to restore $400,000,000 worth of German patents and property seized during the war, according to a canvas of Senate leaders.

The president's action in ordering suit brought against the Chemical Foundation for return of dye patents purchased for $250,000 after their seizure by the former alien property custodian, was looked upon as the first of a number of steps to be taken by the administration to restore seized German property. Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, charged propaganda was being circulated to "arouse prejudice against Germany," in order to prevent the president's plan being matured. A committee of senators, it was learned, will call upon the president this week to discuss the plan. Senator Frelighs, Republican, of New Jersey, who has defended the Chemical Foundation probably will be among them.

King declared there was no justification "either in morals or in law" for the transfer to the Chemical Foundation of the valuable property owned by German nationals and which was seized under a statute which provided the United States should hold the property as a sacred trust to be restored to its alien owners upon the termination of the war.

ELECTRICS DEFEATED 9 TO 4 BY AKRON TEAM ON SUNDAY

The Pennsylvania Railroad baseball team from Akron proved to be the best baseball players at the Washington St. Ball Yard Sunday afternoon, walloping the Bayliff Electric 9 to 4, in a game that entertained the largest crowd the Xenia team has played to this season.

In spite of the apparently lop-sided score, the game was an interesting exhibition, offering all types and brands of the national pastime for the benefit of the bugs. With little better support, Big Bill Koontz, the Springfield spit-baller might have stood the Rubber City athletes on their collective heads, but poor support in the pinches disheartened the elongated hurler, and he was not as effective as the game proceeded.

Franz, a Springfield backstop upheld Koontz in great shape, while "Stony" Fuller, the veteran gardener, brought the crowd to its feet several times, with shoe-string catches that he was forced to fall for to make. "Jap" Ritter played a nasty game at short stop, and Bocklet at first, was another shining light both in the attack and defense of the locals. Bath at third, would have gotten away with a good day, if his pegging had been more perfect.

Kastner pitched nice ball for the visitors, permitting but five hits. He pitched steadily and his support was almost perfect, the performance of Wright at short, being the best work in the short field that has been seen here for some time. Blank at the initial station and Junius, little colored lad at second base, also produced neat exhibitions of infield art.

The locals' got away to what appeared to be a comfortable lead, when they banded out two runs in the first after the visitors had been retired handily. Bath, first up, walked but was forced at second by Leahy. Ritter flied out to Blank, but Bocklet singled, sending Leahy to third. Bocklet stole second and scored with Leahy when Drake singled to left. Drake took second on the throw-in and stole third, but died when F. Leahy whiffed for the third out.

The visitors broke the ice in the fourth frame, after the sides had been retired easily in the first three stanzas. Inskip lef off and fanned but Henry singled to short left. Leahy then muffed Lumbary's roller and all hands were safe. Henry advanced to third on Junius' infield out Lumbary taking second. Stone then walked and the bases were crowded and two gone. Kastner then started to win his own ball game, by singling to left scoring Henry, while Nolan doubled to right and cleaned the sacks, Lumbary, Stone and Kastner scoring. Nolan scored when Bath threw wild to get Blank at first. Wright doubled but Inskip struck out.

The visitors scored another in the fifth, when after Henry had fanned, Lumbary doubled to left. Koontz tossed out Junius, but Stone was safe when Bath's assist was wild and Lumbary scored when Koontz threw wild to get Kastner at first. The locals added two more in the sixth. M. Leahy led off and was hit by a pitched ball. Ritter doubled to right sending Leahy to third. Bocklet was hit by a pitched ball, filling the sacks. Drake's sacrifice fly to right then scored both Leahy and Ritter but Kastner tossed out both F. Leahy and Fuller to get the side.

The Rubber City crowd got their last three runs in the seventh. Junius started the fireworks by doubling to left and Beckley singled over Short sending Junius to third. Kastner flied out to Derrick and Nolan bounded to Derrick who threw wild to Franz to nip Junius at the plate, all hands being safe. Blank whiffed for the second out, but Wright got a scratch infield hit scoring Beckley and Inskip's single to center scored Nolan. A double play nipped an opportunity of the locals to score in the seventh. Franz was safe when Blank dropped Henry's assist and took second on a passed ball. Koontz walked and there were two on and none out. Hoerner, batting for Bath, however, hit into a double play. Wright, unassisted at second to Blank at first, cutting off Koontz and Hoerner, and Derrick flied out to Henry for the third out. The locals tried to score again in the ninth. Owens, batted for F. Leahy and singled to center, stealing second. Crandall was safe when Junius attempted and failed to get Owens who went to third on the play, with none out. Kastner then settled down forcing Franz to pop to the box, while Koontz and Hoerner each fanned.

The Markets

AGRICULTURAL

There is nothing shifty or evasive about the completed report of the Joint Congressional Commission of Agricultural Inquiry. It is more concrete and definite in its recommendations than many commission reports, and meets the issue of cooperative marketing squarely by declaring that "both state and Federal governments should enact the necessary legislation to assure co-operative associations against unfair discriminations and unfair practices." The commission found a need for greater uniformity of products, grades, standards, and containers and improvement in methods of handling by agencies in local, primary, and terminal markets.

The commission, it is worth noting, believes that congress should enact legislation to regulate future trading in grain "in accordance with sound constitutional conceptions," and favors the more systematic utilization of warehouses to absorb temporary surpluses and distribute them evenly in response to demand. The report as a whole will advance the cause of co-operative marketing, which has been making steady headway in this country.

With each commencement of the agricultural colleges has come an increased recognition that the modern farmer needs what is known as "the trained mind"—trained first by study and experimentation in the schools and then by experience in the field. The farmer must know the meaning of chemical formulas and be able to measure ingredients exactly. He must acquaint himself with the laws of heredity, and he must be handy with figures. The farmer is his own bookkeeper and cost accountant. From these conclusions it must not be inferred that no man can farm successfully without training in the schools, but it remains a fact that while he may farm successfully, he cannot farm as successfully as if he had had the mental discipline of education.

The department of Agriculture's survey of the cost of producing marketable pork in sections of Iowa and Illinois during 1921 is an example of the service which reliable statistics on production may render to the agricultural producer. Middle western farmers have known, in general, that with cheap corn they were making money on hogs, but few have known how much. These statistics bear on pork production for another year, as they will help the farmer to judge whether profits on pork are increasing or may approach the vanishing point.

METALS

Steel ingot production for the first half of the year was 16,000,000 tons, against 9,000,000 tons in the six months preceding. The present rate is well above 32,000,000 tons per year. Buying of steel products has been lighter than during the early spring, partly because the mills are reluctant to commit themselves far ahead. Prices of pig iron have shown an upward drift.

ARBITRATE OR LOSE CONTROL; HARDING

GRAIN

Weather is the paramount influence in the grain market at present. The outlook favors corn, while oats have suffered damage in some sections. Black rust, through its effect on the spring crop, may give new strength to wheat. Export and milling demand for wheat has disappointed holders. The trade entered July with a large visible supply of the five grains, taken in the aggregate. Corn is selling at a big discount under wheat. The visible supply is a handicap to oats.

LIVESTOCK

Good cornfed cattle have touched highest levels of the season, while grassers sank to lowest. The calf market was reported as near bottom for the season. More cattle were marketed during the past four months than during the same period of 1921, while the feeder movement was much ahead of 1921. The spread between packing hogs and butchers has given the market a two-sided appearance. Lambs improved after their June slump, which traders felt probably recorded low points for the season. Stocks of frozen and cured meats are lighter than a year ago and less than the ten-year average.

WOOL

Wool has been quiet with some easing of prices, but with values well maintained on the whole. The farm bloc means to assure the farmer of a liberal tariff on wool. The mills are buying in very limited amount.

COTTON

Sudden buying and a sharp upturn resulted from the government's report on cotton acreage, which was more bullish than expected. Conditions during July and August will determine the size of the new crop. Traders will indulge in all sorts of speculation as to probable improvement or damage and weather reports will be scanned closely. The statistical position is strong. Whether present prices have discounted all favorable features of the present situation remains to be seen.

immediately and at the end of one month the miners to call upon the government to state whether or not it has the power to declare whether or not it has the emergency wage scale afforded them a living wage. In other words, the government to place the mining industry on trial with the administration acting as both judge and witness.

2—A compromise conference—under which the administration would call upon the miners to accept state conferences with the operators as opposed either to district or national conferences.

Two different plans that the government may present at the joint conference today were also held as "highly probable" in the camp of the miners. They were:

1—A plan for arbitration of the coal dispute which would include an investigation that would "sift" the industry from top to bottom and that pending such arbitration and investigation the miners return to work under the old scale.

2—Federal seizure of the mines with guarantees of troop protection to workers.

As the warring factions entered the joint conference today, a spokesman for each of the three sides summed up the situation as follows: The miners spokesman declared:

"The government can seize the mines. The government can invoke what laws it may have to force arbitration. The government can place the onus of a national coal shortage upon the mine workers. But the government can not make the men work under terms unacceptable to the workers."

The operators said:

"If the government cannot make men work, wherein then lies the usefulness of seizing the mines. The government can do no more than the operators in the matter of trying to get the miners back to work. The operators cannot operate their mines at a loss any longer. If the government feel that it can operate the mines at a loss, it is free to do so. The operators—ninety percent of them—are on the verge of bankruptcy."

The operators will refuse to work the mines under the old wage scale pending arbitration because such arbitration would consume at the very least three months, at the end of which time the operators would be bankrupt. The wages of the miners must be reduced. We will not

DINNER AND CARDS AT COUNTRY CLUB

The members of the House Committee of the Country Club are announcing that dinner will be served at the club, to be followed by cards, Wednesday evening, July 12, at six thirty o'clock.

All who intend to attend the dinner are asked to arrange their own tables and bring cards. Tallies will be furnished by the committee. Reservations for the dinner should be sent to a member of the committee, or to Don Currie, at the club, not later than Tuesday evening.

ROTARY CLUB TO GIVE DANCE FRIDAY

Members of the Rotary Club are sponsoring a dancing party to be given at Kil Kare Park, Friday evening, the affair being the first social occasion given by the club during the summer.

Guests of the evening will include the membership of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, with their families and friends, and a complete evening of dancing with good music and refreshments is being arranged.

The dance will take the place of the regular noon luncheon of the Rotary Club, Friday.

ENTERTAIN DINNER GUESTS ON SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Burden, and little daughter Gienna, of Oakland, near Wilmington, and Mrs. Roy Sanderson, and five children, of Richmond, Indiana, were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Richardson, of Painterville.

Mrs. Sanderson and children are visiting at the Burden home in Oakland.

Miss Mary Combs has resumed her position at the Hutchison and Gibney Company after enjoying a two weeks vacation, part of which time she spent visiting relatives at Mount Sterling, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Snyder of Miami, Florida, arrived in this city Sunday evening for a few days visit with Mrs. Snyder's brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wilkins.

Ensign J. Merle Ross who has been spending his vacation with his mother, since his graduation from Annapolis Naval Academy, has been ordered to the Atlantic fleet and left this week for Philadelphia. He completed his four year course and received his commission a month ago.

Members of the First Lutheran Church and Sunday School will hold their annual picnic at the Fairgrounds, Tuesday. Those desiring transportation to the grounds, are requested to be at the church at nine o'clock, Tuesday morning.

ONE INNING GIVES HARSHMANVILLE WIN

One bad inning, the unlucky seventh, broke up the ball game between the Yellow Springs Athletics and Harshmanville Sunday afternoon, the latter team winning 4-0, all runs being scored in the bad inning.

Until the seventh rolled around, Harold Little, Yellow Springs pitching ace, and the Harshmanville flash, Koehly were staging a great pitcher's battle and until that inning Little had not permitted a hit. Coy started things in that inning with a double down the left field foul line. Duffy doubled to center scoring Coy, who had to return to third however, because the throw in hit the umpire.

Rike then doubled down the right field foul line, Coy and Duffy scoring. Cyphers sacrificed Rike to second and Kline walked. Greene then singled, scoring Rike, Kline pulling up at third from where he scored on Van Pelt's bounder to Day. Day's work at second and the pitching of Little and Koehly featured the contest. Each pitcher permitted but four hits and only one error was committed during the game.

The lineups: Harshmanville—Van Pelt, If; Conley, ss; Coy, rf; Duffy, c; Rike, cf; Cyphers, 3b; Kline, 2b; Greene, 1b; Koehly, p. Yellow Springs—Fess, rf; Bales, 1b; McDonald, If; Day, 2b; Little, p; Stevens, ss; Northup, cf; Hackett, 3b; Bowser, c. Confer batted for Fess in the ninth. Koehly and Little each struck out six opposing batsmen.

TO INVESTIGATE RATES.

Washington, July 10.—An investigation of the rates and charges of express companies operating under the interstate commerce act was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission. The inquiry is for the purpose of determining the reasonableness of prevailing rates. The time and place for hearings will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kennedy and son, Jack, have returned from a two months' vacation spent at Mineral Springs, Ohio.

JAMES P. HUMPHREYS, well-known automobile man of Hebron, Md., who declares he believes Tanlac is the best thing to overcome stomach trouble and run-down condition. States it completely restored his health.

"I believe in giving everything its due and I want to say right now I just can't praise Tanlac too highly for what it has done in my case," declared James P. Humphreys, proprietor of the Hebron Motor Co., Hebron, Md.

"For three years or more I suffered from indigestion. After eating I would blister terribly with gas and my heart would palpitate until it interfered with my breathing. I was habitually constipated and my nerves were all upset. My sleep was unsound, I got up mornings all tired out, and I was only a shadow of my former self."

"Well, Tanlac has given me a keen appetite, stomach trouble has disappeared, my nerves have steadied down, and have gained several pounds. Tanlac, to my mind, is the best thing ever sold for stomach trouble and run-down condition."

Tanlac is sold by all good drugists.

Twenty-one boys will leave the Court House Tuesday morning at nine o'clock in machines for the first boys' camp ever projected by the Kiwanis Club, which will be held on the Clifton pike.

The boys are between the ages of ten and 13 years and are anticipating a pleasant outing as a result of the efforts of the Kiwanis Club in making arrangements for the affair. A. J. Black, teacher at McKinley Junior High School, will be in charge of the camp, with Daniel Ashbury, colored, formerly cook at the O. S. and S. O. Home, as the camp cook.

Members of the Kiwanis Club got the camp in readiness for the occupancy of the boys Monday afternoon so that they will be able to start in on their daily routine upon their arrival. Religious devotionals have not been overlooked in making the camp program. Members of the Men's Bible Class of the First M. E. Church will hold a meeting at the camp next Sunday morning at ten o'clock, and the Rev. C. P. Proudfit, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church will conduct vespers services at the camp Sunday evening at six o'clock.

Other speakers of the day include Dr. Natalie Merrill, chief of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the Ohio State Department of Health and Mrs. Lillian Burt, also of the State Health Department. Mrs. Burt has appeared in this city on previous occasions, and is well known as a speaker.

During the session, reports will be heard from selected candidates, on the standing of the officers and candidates of the organization for office, in connection with the survey conducted in cooperation with the Ohio League of Women Voters.

A box lunch will be served at noon. The public is cordially invited to attend both sessions.

Members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Greene Co., are preparing for the county-wide institute of the organization, to be held Wednesday at the Second United Presbyterian Church in this city.

The institute will be held during the afternoon, is an annual meeting of the Union, and a program of special interest has been arranged for. One of the speakers for the two sessions will be C. W. Maxwell, of Zanesville, prosecuting attorney of Muskingum County. Maxwell is recognized by his fight against bootleggers.

DINNER AND CARDS AT COUNTRY CLUB

The members of the House Committee of the Country Club are announcing that dinner will be served at the club, to be followed by cards, Wednesday evening, July 12, at six thirty o'clock.

All who intend to attend the dinner are asked to arrange their own tables and bring cards. Tables will be furnished by the committee. Reservations for the dinner should be sent to a member of the committee, or to Don Currie, at the club, not later than Tuesday evening.

ROTARY CLUB TO GIVE DANCE FRIDAY

Members of the Rotary Club are sponsoring a dancing party to be given at Kil Kare Park, Friday evening, the affair being the first social occasion given by the club during the summer.

Guests of the evening will include the membership of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, with their families and friends and a complete evening of dancing with good music and refreshments is being arranged.

The dance will take the place of the regular noon luncheon of the Rotary Club, Friday.

ENTERTAIN DINNER GUESTS ON SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Burden, and little daughter Glenna, of Oakland, near Wilmington, and Mrs. Roy Sanderson, and five children, of Richmond, Indiana, were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Richardson, of Paintersville.

Mrs. Sanderson and children are visiting at the Burden home in Oakland. Miss Mary Combs has resumed her position at the Hutchison and Gibney Company after enjoying a two weeks vacation, part of which time she spent visiting relatives at Mount Sterling, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Snyder of Miami, Florida, arrived in this city Sunday evening for a few days visit with Mrs. Snyder's brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wilkins.

Ensign J. Merle Ross who has been spending his vacation with his mother, since his graduation from Annapolis Naval Academy, has been ordered to the Atlantic fleet and left this week for Philadelphia. He completed his four year course and received his commission a month ago.

Members of the First Lutheran Church and Sunday School will hold their annual picnic at the Fairgrounds, Tuesday. Those desiring transportation to the grounds, are requested to be at the church at nine o'clock, Tuesday morning.

ONE INNING GIVES HARSHMANVILLE WIN

One bad inning, the unlucky seventh, broke up the ball game between the Yellow Springs Athletics and Harshmanville Sunday afternoon, the latter team winning 4-0, all runs being scored in the bad inning.

Until the seventh roared around, Harold Little, Yellow Springs pitching ace, and the Harshmanville flash, Koehly were staging a meat pitcher's battle and until that inning Little had not permitted a hit. Coy started things in that inning with a double down the left field foul line. Duffy doubled to center scoring Coy, who had to return to third however, because the throw in hit the umpire.

Rike then doubled down the right field foul line, Coy and Duffy scoring. Cyphers sacrificed Rike to second and Kline walked. Greene then singled, scoring Rike, Kline pulling up at third from where he scored on Van Pelt's bounder to Day. Day's work at second and the pitching of Little and Koehly featured the contest. Each pitcher permitted but four hits and only one error was committed during the game.

The lineups: Harshmanville—Van Pelt, If; Conley, ss; Coy, rf; Duffy, c; Rike, cf; Cyphers, 3b; Kline, 2b; Greene, 1b; Koehly, p. Yellow Springs—Fess, rf; Bales, 1b; McDonald, If; Day, 2b; Little, p; Stevens, ss; Northup, cf; Hackett, 3b; Bowser, c. Confer batted for Fess in the ninth. Koehly and each struck out six opposing batsmen.

TO INVESTIGATE RATES

Washington, July 10.—An investigation of the rates and charges of express companies operating under the interstate commerce act was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission. The inquiry is for the purpose of determining the reasonableness of prevailing rates. The time and place for hearings will be announced later.

THREE CHEERS AND A TIGER FOR THE BUDGET SYSTEM.

The most interesting statement made by the Budget Bureau is, of course, that such a sum as $250,000,000 has been clearly saved by the firmness and alertness of the executive control exercised through the Budget Bureau. This imposing figure is the aggregation of thousands of transactions, some of them exceedingly small in the number of dollars involved. The bulk of the savings came from changing the methods of the departments. For instance, the rooms of the Department of State had been cleaned by specially employed scrubwomen; it was found that the messenger force could clean them and it was so ordered. In the Veterans' Bureau, an order effecting the prompt discharge of patients from hospitals saved $2,800,000. When the Lighthouse service, which is under the Department of Commerce, was about to spend $500,000 annually for three years for new boats, General Dawes' expert economists found out that several now useless mine planters could do the work and they did it with a big resulting saving to the taxpayer. Hundreds of such instances show how great an improvement the new budget system is over the old, in which each department of the Government ran a business all by itself, regardless of the successful and economical operation of every other department.

Impartial students of public finance would undoubtedly agree that there had been a very commendable effort under the direction of Mr. Dawes to have Government business conducted less expensively. Furthermore, such experts would agree that there is ample room for further economies, although these might not result in sensational reductions of total outlay. It should be remembered that most of the money that is spent by Government is paid out for objects that are either essential or desirable. We have a public war debt that compels us to pay about one billion dollars a year in the form of interest. This burden will be somewhat lightened as foreign nations gradually begin to pay interest upon those parts of the public debt that represent the money that we loaned abroad. The British Government will begin to meet its interest payments in the near future. France will not pay anything until Germany makes reparation payments. The French people are thrifty and they are said to have saved money and to be remarkably well off at the present time. But the French Government has expended so much since the war for the reconstruction of the country that it cannot meet interest payments on the sums loaned to it by the United States, especially in view of the adverse conditions of exchange.

A careful regard will be paid to all these circumstances by the United States debt commission, which is now duly constituted. It will be remembered that Secretary Mellon's bill, as originally presented to Congress, vested in the Treasury Department the unrestricted power to arrange for the funding of these foreign obligations into long-term securities. Congress preferred a commission of five, to be headed by the Secretary of the Treasury. As selected by the President, the Commission consists of Secretary Mellon, as chairman, Secretary Hughes of the State Department, Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce, Mr. Smoot of Utah on behalf of the Senate and Mr. Theodore Burton of Ohio on behalf of the House.

HARDING, BACK IN EDITORIAL CHAIR, WRITES EXTRALONG HOMELY VIRTUES.

The first editorial President Harding has written since he entered the White House was printed over his signature in the Centennial Edition of his paper, the Marion Star, last Wednesday. The editorial, entitled "Essentials to Success," follows.

"While Marion is celebrating the centennial of the city's founding it is fine to rejoice in the coming together again, to find happiness in the exchange of sentiments born of homecoming, to recall the pride in things accomplished and, above all else, appraise the qualities of men and measures which made us what we are today. The latter is essential to the preparedness for greater progress in the future.

"Sturdy men pioneered the way to early settlement—and sturdy women, too. They blazed the way of development in and sent many of their sons and daughters to the peaceful conquest of the greater West—the Mississippi and Missouri Valleys. Resolute and able men made secure the social order here, and simple and courageous men blended determination with genius and made the industrial beginning. They had little wealth, but they wrought wealth out of opportunity. Only a few knew their struggles, their sacrifices; but honesty, simplicity, industry, capacity and determination are known to have been the chief essentials of their success. These make for success anywhere and are available to all who aspire.

"Let Marion preserve every good lesson of the yesterdays and resolve to go on adding to the stride in industry and commerce, and determine that every enlargement in material growth shall reflect larger progress in the finer attainments which make a community worth while. The fit counterpart to the city of material success is the city of happy homes, ample education, fortunate and profitable employment, worship of God facilitated, a civic conscience and a community soul."

DEAD, THOUGH ALIVE.

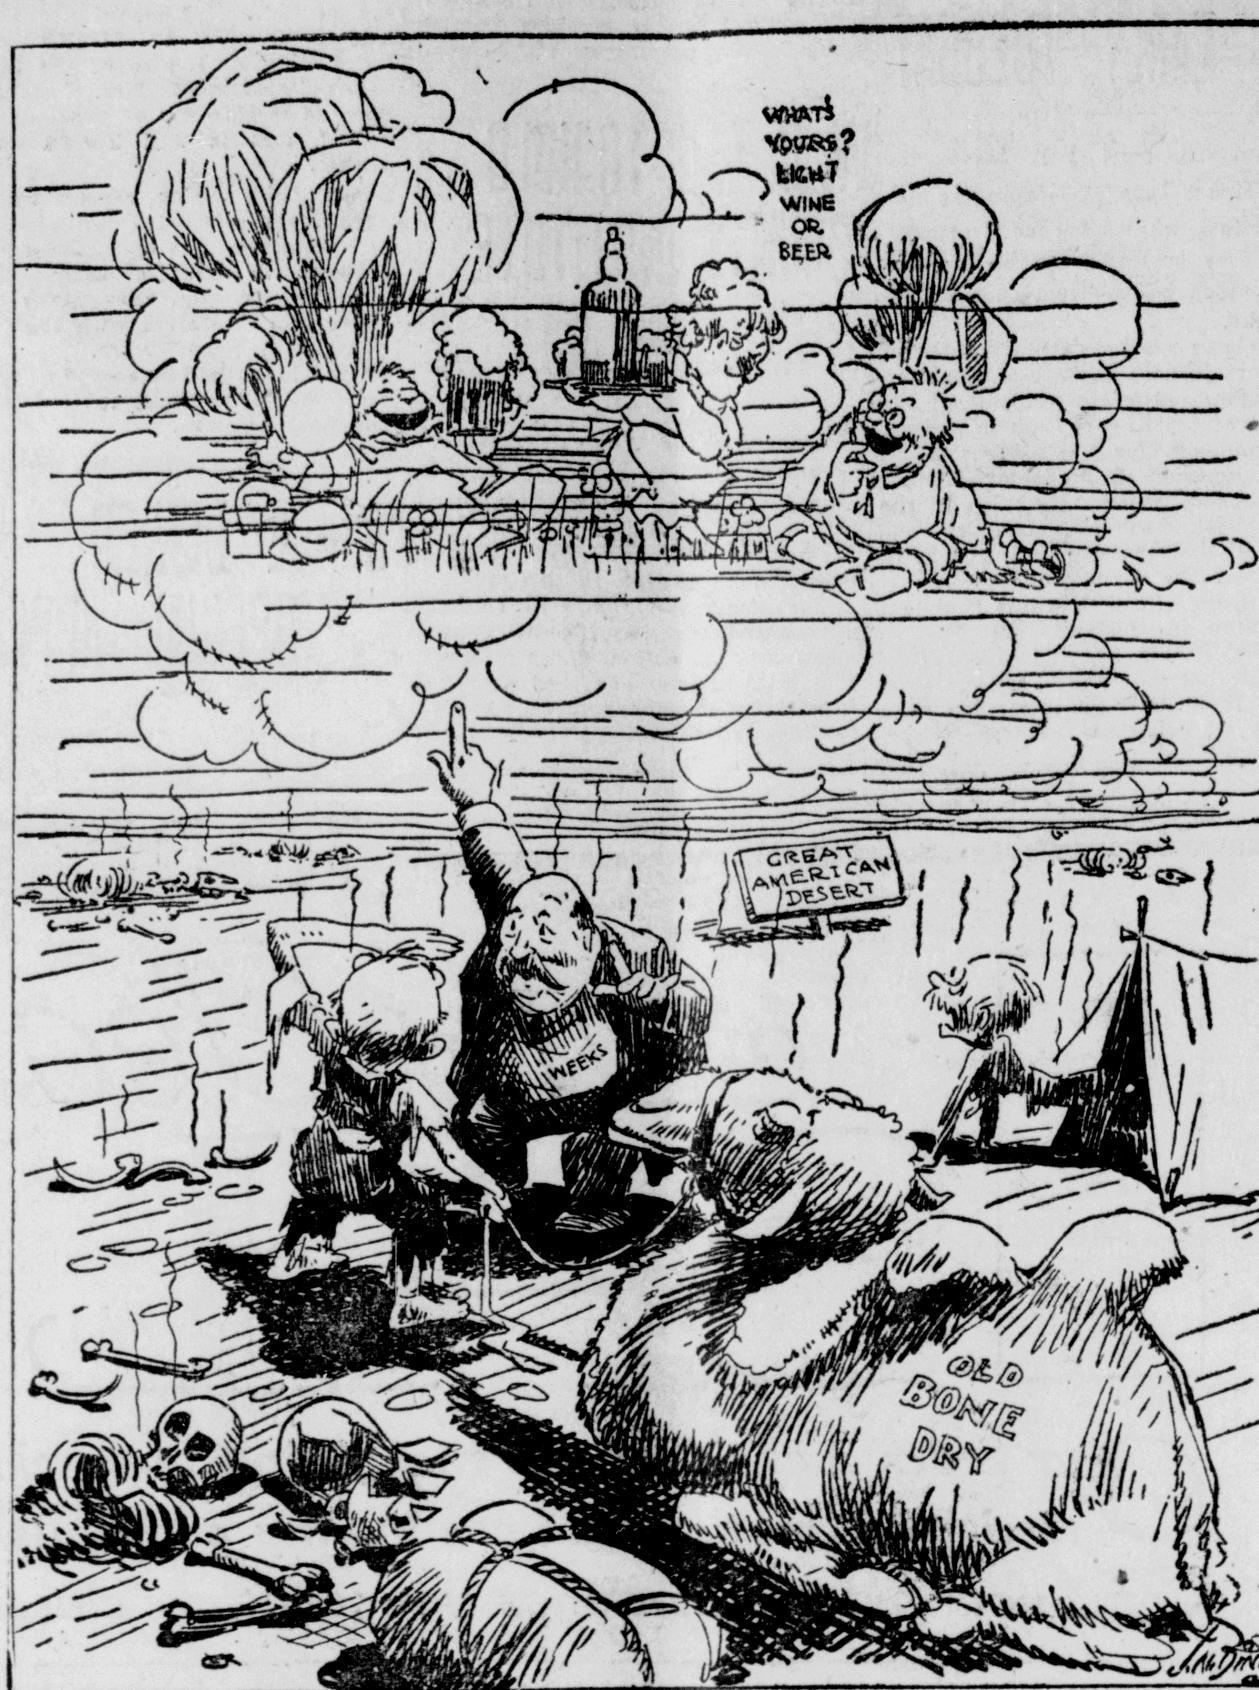

New York has a law which provides that if husband or wife vanishes, and is not seen for five years, it shall be presumption of death. The courts therefore may dissolve the marriage, permit remarriage without danger of prosecution for bigamy later and, presumably, permit the same settlement of estates as would obtain at death under normal circumstances.

Such a law will lead to some abuses. It will be taken advantage of in many instances to secure separation from disastrous bonds without the difficulties of divorce, but that can be checked by proper authority. On the other hand, the measure should afford deserved relief and protection in many instances.

The husband or wife who disappears from home voluntarily, leaving the other to agonies of uncertainty or domestic difficulty and financial struggle, deserves to die legally if not physically. Deliberate desertion is meaner than suicide, for it means that the deserter intends to enjoy life without his due responsibilities while the one who is left behind must carry on.

Where the abandonment is due to some uncontrollable agency, the immediate guilt of the one who disappears is lacking, but the resulting situation in regard to his affairs is not, and if five years elapse without word or sign it is good evidence that life should be adapted to a new basis.

MIRAGE, REFLECTION OR JUST AN HALLUCINATION?

WORD OF DEATH RECEIVED IN THIS CITY ON SUNDAY

Attorney M. J. Hartley has gone to Put-in-Bay where he is in attendance at the meeting of the National Bar Association.

A few days ago the botanist of Antioch College, Yellow Springs gathered a quantity of mushrooms which he had served ed for dinner at his boarding house. There were seven persons at the table and shortly after the meal they became violently ill. Upon investigation it was found that they had eaten toadstools instead of mushrooms.

Mrs. I. C. Shaw, of Chestnut street, received a telegram Sunday, concerning the death of her sister, Mrs. J. H. Beall, formerly of this city, which occurred at her home in Wilder, Idaho, Sunday. Mrs. Beall had been in failing health for a number of years.

Mrs. Beall is well known in this city where she resided for several years, removing to Wilder, Idaho, three years ago. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Juanita. The following brothers and sisters also survive: Mrs. Shaw, of this city; Roy Johnson, of Dayton; Miss Della Johnson, at Wilder, and Craig Johnson, of Dayton. Funeral services and burial will take place at Wilder.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

IT'S HOW YOU GET UP

Long ago I decided that I would never condemn a human being for his mistakes. Most of us have been very much down at times.

It's how a man gets up that counts!

Many years ago, I heard a debate between an ex-Governor and a Congressman. The Congressman was out for the scalp of the ex-Governor. The ex-Governor spoke first, and gave a wonderful speech, full of sincerity and wisdom. The crowd was evidently his.

Then the Congressman spoke and for over an hour and a half uttered nothing but a tirade against all that the ex-Governor had tried to accomplish during a useful life. The crowd was quick to guess his calibre and, so often hissed.

The ex-Governor had but a half hour for rebuttal. He stepped out to the front of the platform and in his own manly style, clear of voice, spoke this sentence: "I would rather have been a monkey twenty years ago, and a man now, than a man then and a monkey now!"

The Congressman melted away.

It isn't how you get down, but how you get up. It's the spirit of your determination to make something of yourself that counts, that establishes your right to the world and all that it has to give.

You may be very weak after your fall, you may even stagger and be unsteady. But if you will stand, and stick to your resolution until strength gradually comes, you may enter the ranks of the strongest and be unafraid.

It's how you get up—and what you decide to do after you have risen—that will make the future respect you.

Every man is in debt to all mankind. And so our debts should be paid in the best medium we are able to earn and give.

If you fall twelve times, get up the thirteenth! Keep one lap ahead of Failure all the time and some of these days. Failure is going to get very tired and itself drop by the wayside, leaving you one of the powerful and helpful figures of the world.

It's how you get up—and why. Remember that.

THE SUFFERERS.

Jim Beeswax has a grievous corn upon his snow-white toe, and all day long his beard is torn, he rends it in his woe. And when I pause beside his gate to pass the time o'day, he rails against the bitter fate that tortures him this way. He speaks not of the lovely morn, of flowers that scent the gale, but gives the facts about his corn, to every last detail. He does not note the landscape wide, the waving fields of grain, but tells of plasters he has tried, which failed to ease the pain. John Dorking is a cheerful gent who lives next door to me; his form by rheumatiz is bent, till it's a sight to see. All kinds of plain and fancy aches along his limbs career, and when from pain-racked dreams he makes, he smiles from ear to ear. He likes to talk of pleasant things, of birds and buds and bees, and of the fragrant vine that clings to yonder pepper trees. He speaks of moonlight on the lakes, of streams by sunshine kissed, and when I ask about his aches he says they don't exit. I dodge Jim Beeswax when I can, sidestep him every day, to visit with this breezy man who laughs his ills away.

THREE CHEERS AND A TIGER FOR THE BUDGET SYSTEM.

The most interesting statement made by the Budget Bureau is, of course, that such a sum as $250,000,000 has been clearly saved by the firmness and alertness of the executive control exercised through the Budget Bureau. This imposing figure is the aggregation of thousands of transactions, some of them exceedingly small in the number of dollars involved. The bulk of the savings came from changing the methods of the departments. For instance, the rooms of the Department of State had been cleaned by specially employed scrubwomen; it was found that the messenger force could clean them and it was so ordered. In the Veterans' Bureau, an order effecting the prompt discharge of patients from hospitals saved $2,800,000. When the Lighthouse service, which is under the Department of Commerce, was about to spend $500,000 annually for three years for new boats, General Dawes' expert economists found out that several now useless mine planters could do the work and they did it with a big resulting saving to the taxpayer. Hundreds of such instances show how great an improvement the new budget system is over the old, in which each department of the Government ran a business all by itself, regardless of the successful and economical operation of every other department.

Impartial students of public finance would undoubtedly agree that there had been a very commendable effort under the direction of Mr. Dawes to have Government business conducted less expensively. Furthermore, such experts would agree that there is ample room for further economies, although these might not result in sensational reductions of total outlay. It should be remembered that most of the money that is spent by Government is paid out for objects that are either essential or desirable. We have a public war debt that compels us to pay about one billion dollars a year in the form of interest. This burden will be somewhat lightened as foreign nations gradually begin to pay interest upon those parts of the public debt that represent the money that we loaned abroad. The British Government will begin to meet its interest payments in the near future. France will not pay anything until Germany makes reparation payments. The French people are thrifty and they are said to have saved money and to be remarkably well off at the present time. But the French Government has expended so much since the war for the reconstruction of the country that it cannot meet interest payments on the sums loaned to it by the United States, especially in view of the adverse conditions of exchange.

A careful regard will be paid to all these circumstances by the United States debt commission, which is now duly constituted. It will be remembered that Secretary Mellon's bill, as originally presented to Congress, vested in the Treasury Department the unrestricted power to arrange for the funding of these foreign obligations into long-term securities. Congress preferred a commission of five, to be headed by the Secretary of the Treasury. As selected by the President, the Commission consists of Secretary Mellon, as chairman, Secretary Hughes of the State Department, Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce, Mr. Smooth of Utah on behalf of the Senate and Mr. Theodore Burton of Ohio on behalf of the House.

HARDING, BACK IN EDITORIAL CHAIR, WRITES EXTOLLING HOMELY VIRTUES.

The first editorial President Harding has written since he entered the White House was printed over his signature in the Centennial Edition of his paper, the Marion Star, last Wednesday. The editorial, entitled "Essentials to Success," follows.

"While Marion is celebrating the centennial of the city's founding, it is fine to rejoice in the coming together again, to find happiness in the exchange of sentiments born of homecoming, to recall the pride in things accomplished and, above all else, appraise the qualities of men and measures which made us what we are today. The latter is essential to the preparedness for greater progress in the future."

"Sturdy men pioneered the way to early settlement—and sturdy women, too. They blazed the way of development in Marion and sent many of their sons and daughters to the peaceful conquest of the greater West—the Mississippi and Missouri Valleys. Resolute and able men made secure the social order here, and simple and courageous men blended determination with genius and made the industrial beginning. They had little wealth, but they wrought wealth out of opportunity. Only a few knew their struggles, their sacrifices; but honesty, simplicity, industry, capacity and determination are known to have been the chief essentials of their success. These make for success anywhere and are available to all who aspire."

"Let Marion preserve every good lesson of the yesterdays and resolve to go on adding to the stride in industry and commerce, and determine that every enlargement in material growth shall reflect larger progress in the finer attainments which make a community worth while. The fit counterpart to the city of material success is the city of happy homes, ample education, fortunate and profitable employment, worship of God facilitated, a civic conscience and a community soul."

DEAD, THOUGH ALIVE.

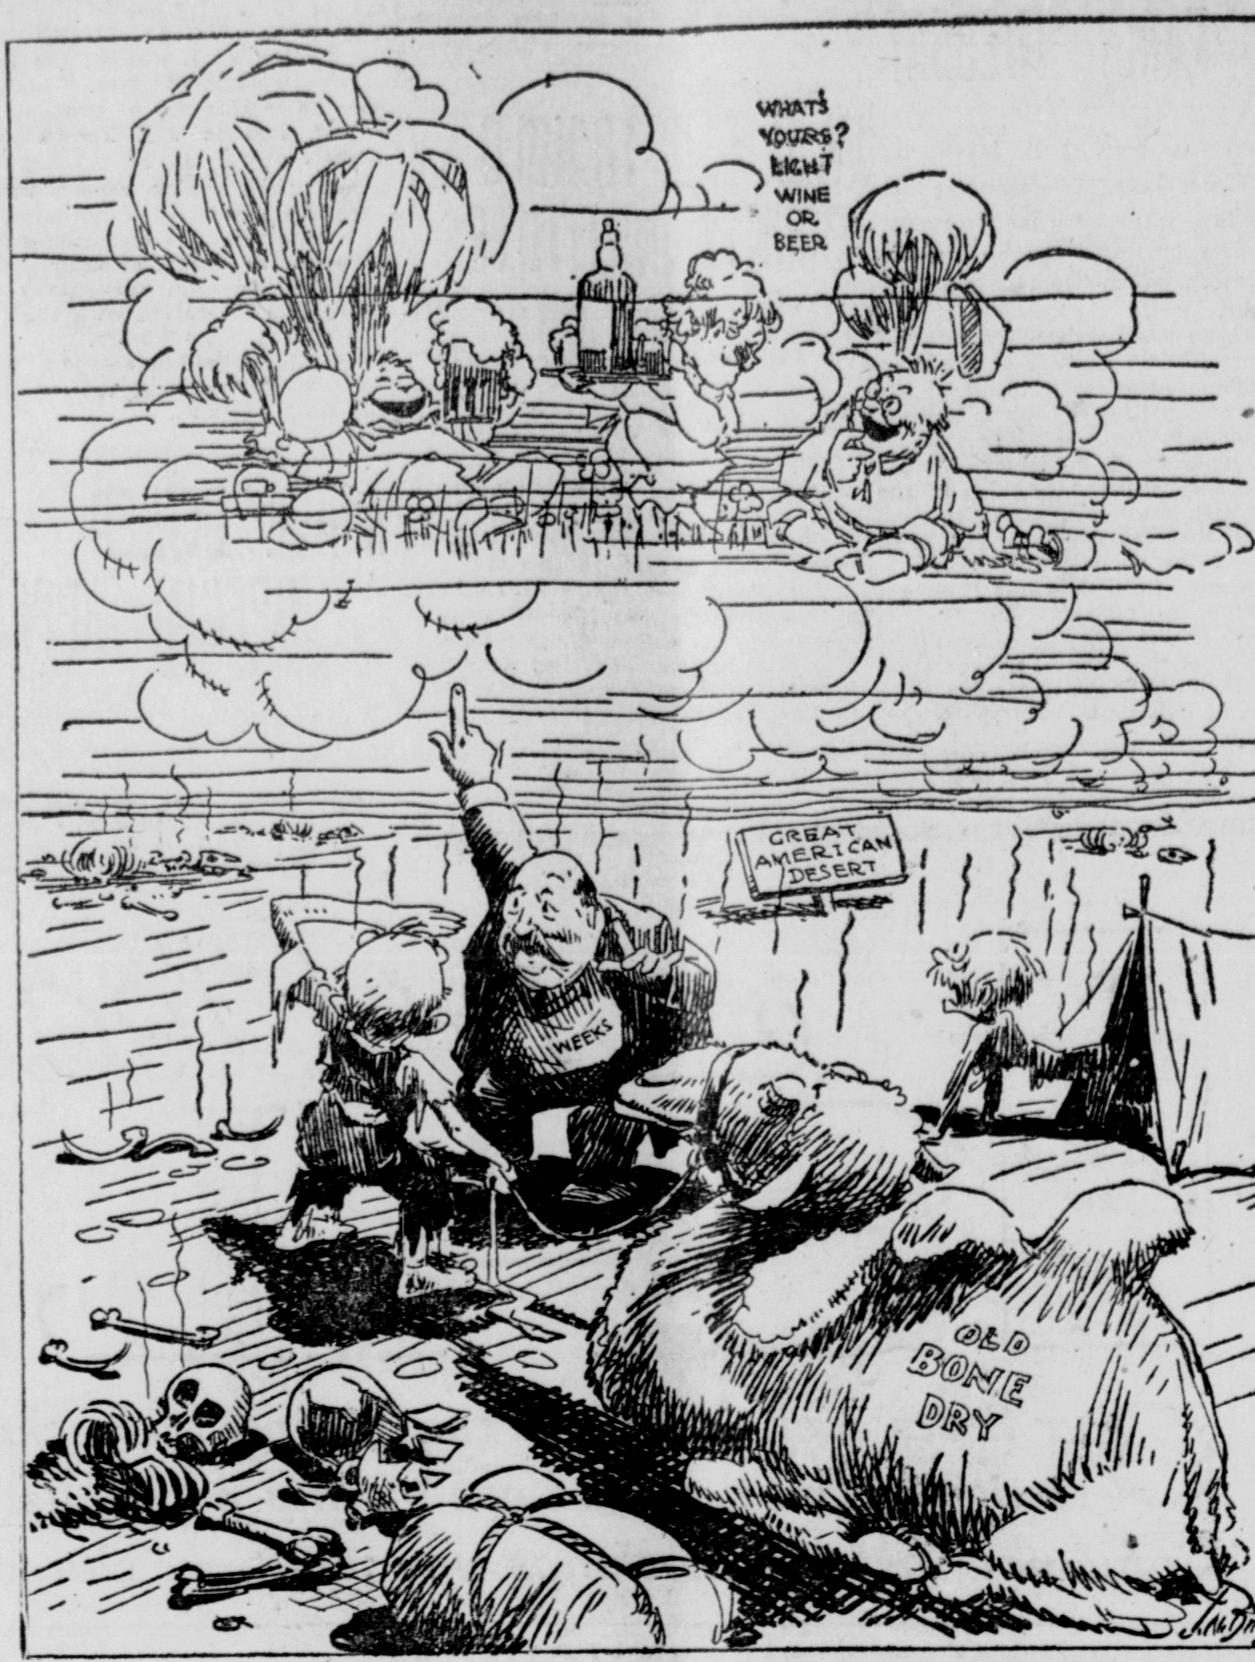

New York has a law which provides that if husband or wife vanishes, and is not seen for five years, it shall be presumption of death. The courts therefore may dissolve the marriage, permit remarriage without danger of prosecution for bigamy later and, presumably, permit the same settlement of estates as would obtain at death under normal circumstances.

Such a law will lead to some abuses. It will be taken advantage of in many instances to secure separation from distasteful bonds without the difficulties of divorce, but that can be checked by proper authority. On the other hand, the measure should afford deserved relief and protection in many instances.

The husband or wife who disappears from home voluntarily, leaving the other to agonies of uncertainty or domestic difficulty and financial struggle, deserves to die legally if not physically. Deliberate desertion is meaner than suicide, for it means that the deserter intends to enjoy life without his due responsibilities while the one who is left behind must carry on.

Where the abandonment is due to some uncontrollable agency, the immediate guilt of the one who disappears is lacking, but the resulting situation in regard to his affairs is not, and if five years elapse without word or sign it is good evidence that life should be adapted to a new basis.

MIRAGE, REFLECTION OR JUST AN HALLUCINATION?

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Attorney M. J. Hartley has gone to Put-in-Bay where he is in attendance at the meeting of the National Bar Association.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

IT'S HOW YOU GET UP

Long ago I decided that I would never condemn a human being for his mistakes. Most of us have been very much down at times.

It's how a man gets up that counts!

Many years ago, I heard a debate between an ex-Governor and a Congressman. The Congressman was out for the scalp of the ex-Governor. The ex-Governor spoke first, and gave a wonderful speech, full of sincerity and wisdom. The crowd was evidently his.

Then the Congressman spoke and for over an hour and a half uttered nothing but a tirade against all that the ex-Governor had tried to accomplish during a useful life. The crowd was quick to guess his calibre and, so often hissed.

The ex-Governor had but a half hour for rebuttal. He stepped out to the front of the platform and in his own manly style, clear of voice, spoke this sentence: "I would rather have been a monkey twenty years ago, and a man now, than a man then and a monkey now!"

The Congressman melted away.

It isn't how you get down, but how you get up. It's the spirit of your determination to make something of yourself that counts, that establishes your right to the world and all that it has to give.

You may be very weak after your fall, you may even stagger and be unsteady. But if you will to stand, and stick to your resolution until strength gradually comes, you may enter the ranks of the strongest and be unafraid.

It's how you get up—and what you decide to do after you have risen—that will make the future respect you.

Every man is in debt to all mankind. And so our debts should be paid in the best medium we are able to earn and give.

If you fall twelve times, get up the thirteenth! Keep one lap ahead of failure all the time and some of these days, failure is going to get very tired and itself drop by the wayside, leaving you one of the powerful and helpful figures of the world.

It's how you get up—and why. Remember that.

WORD OF DEATH RECEIVED IN THIS CITY ON SUNDAY

Mrs. I. C. Shaw, of Chestnut street, received a telegram Sunday, concerning the death of her sister, Mrs. J. H. Beall, formerly of this city, which occurred at her home in Wilder, Idaho, Sunday. FARMERS OF TEN COUNTIES TO MEET IN DAYTON JULY 15

A general meeting of all farmers in the ten counties in the Miami Valley, who signed the contract of the Miami Valley Cooperative Milk Producers' Association, will be held next Saturday, at the Y. M. C. A. building in Dayton, at ten o'clock, central standard time.

The meeting has been called for the purpose of ratifying the constitution of the organization, and hearing plans of the association, outlined to carry out the proposed work.

A. F. Hedges, former county agent for the Montgomery County Farm Bureau, has been employed as manager of the Miami Valley Cooperative Milk Producers' Association, assuming his duties July 1. He will devote his entire time to the selling of milk and cream of the farmers of the district who have assigned to cooperate with the organization.

The offices of the Association have been placed in Dayton and the work of selling of the dairy products for the entire membership is to be started soon.

CANNING CORN IN THE SUREST WAY

Success in canning corn depends much upon the selection of tender juicy corn which has not yet reached the starchy stage. If allowed to grow beyond the point of greatest succulence, it becomes tough and dry and is not canned satisfactorily. Can it as soon after picking, as possible. After removing husks and silk, put the cobs in a cheesecloth bag and lower the bag into boiling water from one to three minutes (depending upon the tenderness of the ears; very young ears need be "blanched" in this way for only one minute). "Cold-dipping" follows, which consists of plunging the bagful of ears quickly in and out of a pan of cold water. Then the kernels are cut from the cobs as follows:

Some housekeepers like to cut the kernels very close to the cob and do no scraping; this method gives a canned corn with nearly whole separate kernels. Other housekeepers prefer to cut off the outer end of the kernel first, and then remove the lower end by a second cutting; this plan gives a creamy consistency to the finished product which I, personally, like best. Still a third style of cutting the corn from the cob, is that of slitting the end of the kernel and squeezing out the contents; this method gives a hull less product similar to the commercial "kornlet."

Have sterilized glass jars ready. By "sterilized" I mean jars that have been placed in a pan of warm water, with their covers lying in the pan beside them, and left there till the water has been brought to the boiling point and allowed to continue boiling for 12 minutes. Pack the kernels of corn in these hot, sterilized jars to within one inch of the top, add one and one-half teaspoon of salt and sugar mixed together (half in half) and boiling water to cover.

If you are using a Mason jar, screw down the top only half way.

Now comes the "processing." To be sure, corn may be processed by the One-Period Cold Pack Method—which consists of boiling the jar on a rack in the wash-boiler for three hours on one day; but the surest method of processing it, is to put the jar into the wash-boiler for one hour on each of three successive days, keeping them in room-temperature overnight between each day's processing. This method gives the spores not killed by the first boiling of the jar, a chance to develop into the easily killed vegetative form and then be destroyed by the second period of boiling. And the third period of boiling makes the method doubly safe. After each period of boiling the jars, the side wire should be pressed down to completely seal the jar—but this wire must be raised again before processing the jar for the second and third time, to take care of the expansion of the corn caused by the heat.

When anyone tells you a frock has been made by Lanvin you know just how smart that frock can be. The one in the sketch has the chic and exquisite daintiness of detail which makes you know it at once as a Lanvin creation.

It is of organdie, over a foundation of taffeta, and as a hot weather dance frock its color scheme is the coolest imaginable, for the underskirt is of soft, old blue, and the frock is of a delicate shade of orchid, trimmed with white organdie.

Frocks to wear on piping hot days when one wishes to be cool as well as a pleasant spot in the landscape, follow in a general way the various tendencies of the season, but cling to the time-honored materials of our grandmothers—the dotted Swiss, the gingham,

Pack the kernels of corn in these hot, sterilized jars to within one inch of the top, add one and one-half teaspoons of salt and sugar mixed together (half in half) and boiling water to cover.

If you are using a Mason jar, screw down the top only half way.

Now comes the "processing." To be sure, corn may be processed by the One-Period Cold Pack Method—which consists of boiling the jar on a rack in the wash-boiler for three hours on one day; but the surest method of processing it, is to put the jar into the wash-boiler for one hour on each of three successive days, keeping them in room-temperature overnight between each day's processing. This method gives the spores not killed by the first boiling of the jar, a chance to develop into the easily killed vegetative form and then be destroyed by the second period of boiling. And the third period of boiling makes the method doubly safe. After each period of boiling the jars, the side wire should be pressed down to completely seal the jar—but this wire must be raised again before processing the jar for the second and third time, to take care of the expansion of the corn caused by the heat.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

Don't let skin trouble spoil your good time

Resinol heals sick skins

"I can't have any fun! I am such a sight with this eczema that people avoid me wherever I go. And the itching torments me so that I don't get any peace, anyhow."

Don't be discouraged! Even in severe, well-established cases of eczema, ringworm or similar skin-troubles, Resinol Ointment, aided by Resinol Soap, usually relieves the itching at once and quickly clears the eruption away.

Doctors prescribe the Resinol treatment. All drugists sell Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap.

Earl motor cars are built in three Earl plants

Because the Earl is manufactured—not merely assembled—in three big Earl plants at Jackson, Michigan, its visible beauty, comfort and road performance cannot be matched in any other car of its wheel base or price. Its economy is unusual for a motor car of any size.

Only one manufacturing profit goes into its cost. That's why you are able to buy such beauty and comfort, with the Earl's ability to go anywhere your road leads, at the notably low price of $1095.

The Earl factory builds into every Earl the endurance and quality which make its economy, riding ease and performance so remarkable.

Earl values are outstanding. You can check them for yourself today. Come in and study this great car feature by feature, from drum-type head and cowl lamps to 56-inch rear springs. Let us give you a demonstration. Take the wheel yourself. Make all your own tests.

MEXICAN MOTHER BEGS U. S. AID

FAST CRUISER STICKS ON THE WAYS.

COUNTESS IS SHOT FLEEING REDS

Launching of U.S.S. Detroit.

Mrs. Maria F. Vala de Blanco.

Mrs. Maria F. Vala de Blanco, mother of General Lucio Blanco, former Chief of Staff to President Carranza of Mexico, who was slain near Laredo, Texas, has appealed to President Harding for U. S. protection for her remaining three sons. Mrs. Blanco declares there is a plot to wipe out the entire male portion of the family. The plot, she says, was formed by political enemies. General Blanco was kidnapped from his hotel in company with Colonel Aurelio Martinez, and their bodies, handcuffed together, were found in the Rio Grande two days later.

LEADS FIGHT FOR NEW SCHOOL LAW

Miss Charl O. Williams.

Miss Charl O. Williams, of Memphis, Tenn., will head the many thousand defenders of the Smith-Tanner bill in the National Educational Association, which is to meet in Boston. As president of the association, she demands a square deal for farmers' children by consolidating rural schools into larger institutions, with better facilities; sex teaching in public and private schools and improvement in the physical care of school children, with thorough democracy in the public schools.

LEADERS OF FRANCE AND ENGLAND

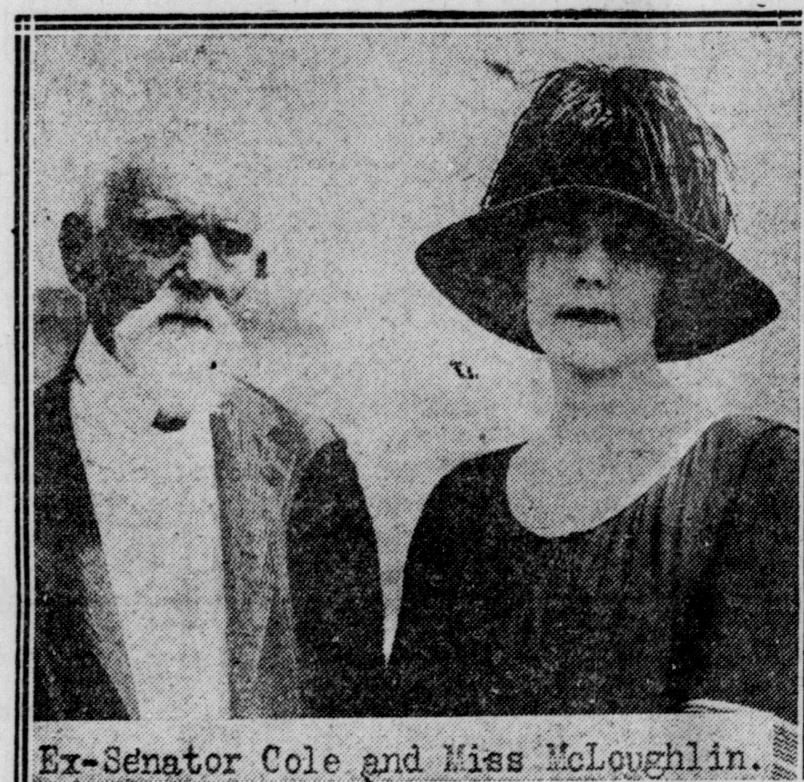

M. Poincare and Mr. Lloyd George.

M. Raymond Poincare, Premier of France and former President, with David Lloyd George Premier of England, two of the greatest figures in world politics, were photographed together on the occasion of the visit of the French Premier to London.

100 YEAR OLD EX-SENATOR TO FLY

Ex-Senator Cole and Miss McLaughlin.

Ex-Senator Cornelius Cole, of California, visited New York with his granddaughter, Miss Cornelie Beekman McLaughlin, for the purpose of making a flight over the city in an airplane piloted by Miss McLaughlin, who is a licensed aviator and pilot.

SAYS SHE WAS ASKED TO TRAP RICH MAN

Mrs. Viola Pierce Norman.

Mrs. Viola Pierce Norman, of Boston, is suing for divorce on the grounds of desertion, answering her husband's suit on a similar charge. She declares he often asked her to give away their son so he would not have to support him. The husband alleged Mrs. Norman was friendly with a wealthy man who promised her a life of ease. She countered by charging that her husband frequently introduced her to rich men and asked her to compromise them, so that he might sue for alienation of affections.

Miss Helen Clay Frick
Seriously Ill.

Miss Helen Clay Frick.

Miss Helen Clay Frick, daughter of the late Henry Clay Frick, of Pittsburgh, and New York, is reported seriously ill at her estate at Pride's Crossing, near Boston. She suffered a nervous breakdown as a result of her untiring efforts cataloguing the works of American artists in her father's New York palace.

Lady Rachel Cavendish To Marry Wales?

Lady Rachel Cavendish.

Lady Rachel Cavendish, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, is, according to London rumor to become the bride of the Prince of Wales and the future Queen of Great Britain. With his return from his world tour it is believed the announcement of the engagement may be made soon.

Girl's Arrest Discloses Hidden Romance.

Miss Alice Bergoshian.

The arrest of Miss Alice Bergoshian of Chelsea, Mass., disclosed her hidden romance with Ray Russell, a prominent automobile dealer, and married man. She was arrested on a charge of being a female "Raffles," but her friends declare she will be freed with honor.

Edwin Gould Back In America.

Edwin Gould.

Edwin Gould, son of the late Jay Gould, has returned to America, after a long sojourn in Europe, with his pet "Chibby." Mrs. Gould remained in Europe.

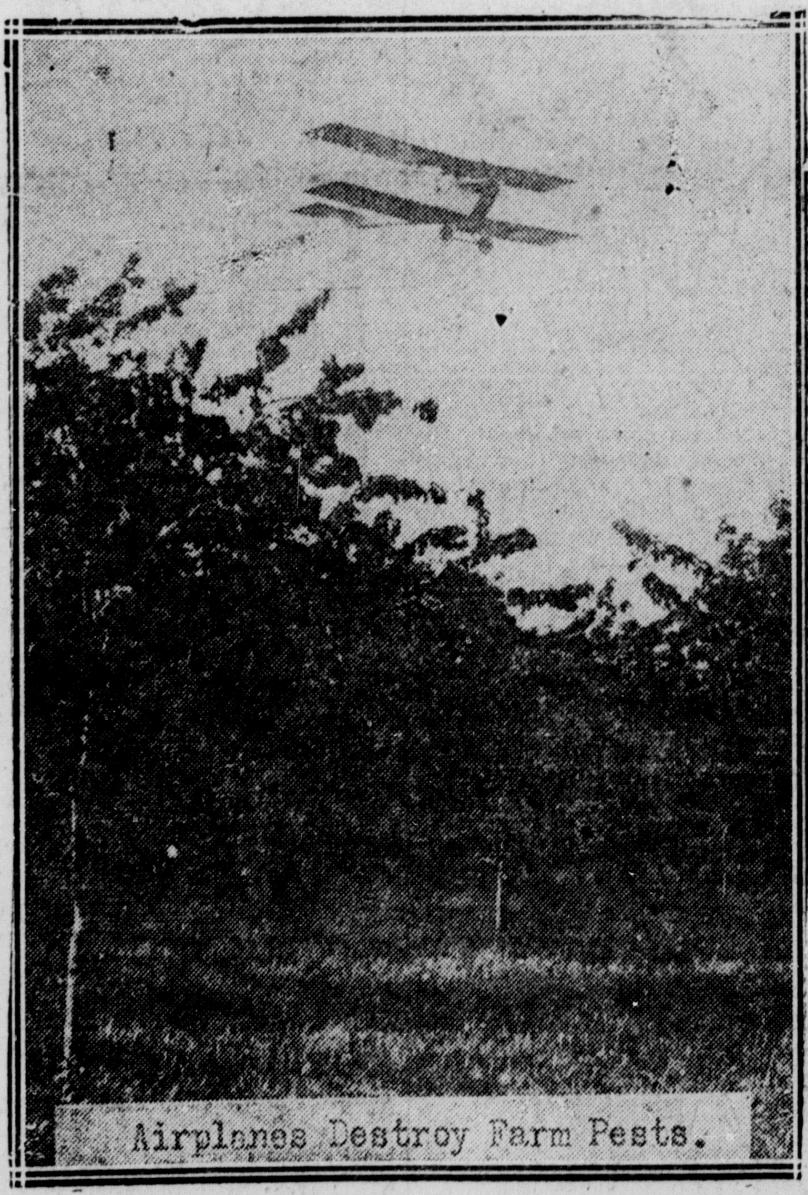

COUNTESS IS SHOT FLEEING REDS

Countess Jeanne-Marie de Villeneuve.

Bolsheviks seized control, taking her $3,000,000 estate. Her sisters, husband and year-old son were murdered and she was sent to Siberia and forced to do all kinds of manual labor. By bribing guards, she was able to flee to Mukden, then under Japanese control. During her flight she was wounded in the leg.

For the first time in British farming caterpillars threatened completely to ruin crops. The plague was exterminated with the aid of air planes, each of which scattered half a ton of insecticide from a height of fifteen feet over the trees.

WOODEN STEAMERS PUT TO THE TORCH

The Burning Vessels.

The burning question was to get the $9,000 worth of metal out of these two old wooden sea horses—and the owners did. They towed the Wakanna and the Fairfield off Governors Island, New York Harbor and burned them. The Wakanna is shown burning in the frame of another old hulk. The vessels afire suggested an up-to-date movie scene.

Launching of U.S.S. Detroit.

Uncle Sam's latest and fastest cruiser, the Detroit, was scheduled to be launched at 2:30 p. m. at the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., Quincy, Mass. The bottle of wine was properly broken and the cruiser christened, but it stubbornly refused to leave the ways. Battering rams were "broken out" to force the ship into the water when it suddenly decided to move on and took its initial plunge without aid.

DRILLED WELLS DO NOT GIVE WATER SUPPLY ENOUGH

That it is impossible to obtain an adequate water supply for Wilmington from drilled wells, is the gist of information furnished authorities of that city by the Department of the Interior, U. S. Geological Survey.

Wilmington authorities are advised that the city water supply can only be increased by drilling a greater number of shallow wells, either where the present wells are located or in some other place, or by sinking a shaft and running tunnels among the water-bearing beds in order to increase the infiltration.

The present city water supply is under the control of the Dayton Power and Light Company, which company is now making a survey to determine the possibility of getting water from some other source and piping it to Wilmington or the construction of a reservoir at some point either on Todd's Fork or Cowan's Creek. At present the water supply is so meager that restrictions have been placed upon its use.

MOSQUITOES ARE STILL A PROBLEM

Pain Creek and its mosquitoes are still furnishing a puzzle in for Washington, C. H., according to advices from that city.

Because the city does not have a sewage disposal plant, all sewage empties into Pain Creek, which runs through the middle of the city.

The creek is breeding place for mosquitoes, and these insect pests are on hand summer or winter. Washington C. H. residents have found it impossible to avoid the insects and although a movement was started some time ago to have a bond issue for a sewage disposal plant, nothing later came from the movement.

Health authorities are now preparing to put oil on the creek as a means of lessening the number of mosquitoes although this method will not completely eradicate the pests, it is said.

SPRING VALLEY

Mr. Earl Copsey of Spring Valley and Miss Carrie Reed of Springfield were quietly united in marriage at the home of the Rev. Bogan, pastor of the Friends Church at Spring Valley, Thursday evening, at six forty-five o'clock.

The couple was unattended, a few members of the immediate families witnessing the ceremony. The bride wore for her marriage a dress of grey crepe with hat and shoes to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Copsey went immediately to housekeeping at their home in Spring Valley, where Mr. Copsey is employed in the garage business.

Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. William Copsey, parents of the bride, groom, entertained at a prettily appointed dinner at their home in Spring Valley, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Copsey. Covers were laid for twelve guests from a distance including Mr. and Mrs. Earl Confer and children of Xenia and Mr. and Mrs. Dee, of Springfield.

WOMAN ELUDES NURSE; DISAPPEARS

Cincinnati, July 10.—Eluding her nurse and locking herself in a bathroom, Miss Maud Powers, 40, Covington, Ky., climbed through a window clad only in her night gown and leaped to the ground by way of a kitchen roof Sunday, disappearing in the direction of the river. A Negro servant followed her several blocks but lost the trail. Her relatives fear she committed suicide as she had been continually depressed about her failure to recover completely from an appendicitis operation she underwent in February.

MAN IS STABBED IN STRIKE RIOT

Chicago, July 10.—One man was stabbed six times and another was beaten with "blackjacks" Saturday in a new outbreak near the Burnside Shops of the Illinois Central railroad.

The victims were Andrew Polish and Michael Kukyno, who were on their way home from work when the attack occurred. The assault upon them is attributed to striking rail-road shopmen.

Earlier in the day six sticks of dynamite were found in coal used in the yards of the A. T. & S. F. railroad. All coal in the yards of the company now is being screened to discover if it contains any more explosive.

WILL HOLD FARM BUREAU PICNIC

There will be a Greene County Farm Bureau Picnic.

This decision was reached by members of the Executive Board of the organization, in session at the Greene County Farm Bureau offices in the Federal Building, Saturday afternoon.

The date to be set, and other arrangements for the gala day were put in the hands of a committee composed of Herman W. Eavey, B. U. Bell, Elmer Hetsel and County Agent Ford S. Prince.

The remainder of the meeting was devoted to the discussion of routine business.

ODD FELLOWS SEND DELEGATES TO MEET

Columbus, July 10.—Delegates began arriving early today for the grand encampment of the Odd Fellows, which begins here tomorrow. The encampment is expected to attract 5,000 and 10,000 visiting members of the Order during the week's program.

Early arrivals included J. S. Recorb, London, grand high priest, who is to be installed this week as 33rd patriarch, succeeding Aver Keckler, Mansfield; Fred A. Hahn, Toledo, president of the grand council, patriarch militant, F. C. Garret, Dayton, grand scribe and Mrs. Josephine Hahn, Toledo, president of the auxiliary.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

DAINTY SURROUNDINGS

I think I have told before in this column the story of the woman who was really very homely but who gave everyone the impression that she was beautiful because she surrounded herself with beautiful objects and made her person, her clothes and her home exquisitely dainty. She wasn't rich, in fact she was rather poor. She wasn't particularly intelligent nor even very clever. What she did any woman can do.

Like Mrs. X. every woman wants to seem beautiful. Mrs. X. felt that she was somewhat colorless, having drab color hair and small light eyes, so she introduced color into her home.

ties of paint and enamel, she found many parts of her house unsatisfactory after the rejuvenation. But wherever a room did not entirely please her she put flowers, not ugly rubber plants or stiff palms, but softly hanging ivy and flowers with colorful blooms. In the Summer she made herself a quaint old-fashioned garden. For her clothes she chose, not sombre black nor trying brown, but soft and dainty colorings.

I. L. T. W.—Rosy cheeks depend upon so many things it is impossible to give a formula that would help you attain them. Often when the skin lacks color it is because of too little oxygen in the blood and deeper breathing, or more exercise that induces deep breathing, will correct the trouble.

Thin.—Cocoa butter is nourishing and will assist you in filling out the hollows, but since you are very thin all over, it is best to build up your general health and increase your weight. Drink plenty of milk and other nourishing liquids.

Auburn Hair—If you have been eating a great many strawberries this season it would account for this rash that many people are afflicted with at present. A cure means to simplify the diet for a few days and drink plenty of water. An occasional fast for 24 hours, while plenty of water is taken, will help clear the system and rid the complexion of blemishes.

"Little Nellie sticks to grandpa," Nellie answered, "but I'm going to hunt that woodpile. Maybe I'll find a reason why the place is so easy; maybe he doesn't pay regular or something."

"Nonesense!" Gladys returned. He probably has some little business that doesn't require long hours. Just be thankful for the job and don't go snooping around."

"I'm listening!" Nellie said her head cocked comically on one side.

She was very gay, very happy. No

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHELEPS

Chapter 18

"It's just too good to be true," Nellie told Cora Baker that night. "There's a nigger in the woodpile somewhere, I'm sure. It isn't my luck to fall into a tub of soothin'-syrup. Needn't stay after he does after four! No need to worry about me getting sick—I shant die of over-

"Be careful you don't get lazy," Cora answered. "I am so glad for you, Nellie. You must do your very best so that if anything happens he will give you a good reference; and if there doesn't so he will pay you more. You will have to have clothes soon, and if you try I am sure you will soon get raised."

"What time do you have to start working?" Gladys asked.

"Oh, granpa gets there between 9:30 ad 10!"

"Goodness!" the lazy Gladys exclaimed. Trade jobs with me, Nellie! You don't mind getting up and oh, it is so hard for me!"

"Little Nellie sticks to grandpa," Nellie answered, "but I'm going to hunt that woodpile. Maybe I'll find a reason why the place is so easy; maybe he doesn't pay regular or something."

"Nonesense!" Gladys returned. He probably has some little business that doesn't require long hours. Just be thankful for the job and don't go snooping around."

"I'm listening!" Nellie said her head cocked comically on one side.

She was very gay, very happy. No longer would she be a drag on Cora; no longer would she have to help Mrs. Thompson with the housework—work she detested, but which she had been obliged to do. Mrs. Thompson grumbled, wished Nellie hadn't got a job.

"I'll pay you most as much beside room and board if you'll give me all your time," she said.

Nellie thanked her, but refused. To the girls she said,

"Give her all my time! Don't I know what that means! All day and half the night! Mrs. Thompson's all right, but no boarding house for me!

I worked too long for Miss Carter. She must think I am a fool to give up my easy job, my short hours in an office to work in her kitchen. I'd rather be dead, honest would.

"I'll do it for a little while because Cora would teach me. But never again!"

"You are so neat, Nellie, and so quick. No wonder Mrs. Thompson is so awfully hard, I guess. She gets along well with good servants in a house like this. Everything is so old and dingy."

Gladys had hit upon the truth. It was nearly impossible for Mrs. Thompson to keep servants and Nellie's neatness, her good nature had been a godsend. When she talked with Cora about it, she was in tears.

"I knew it wouldn't last, but I kept hoping it would," she whined.

"But Nellie isn't a servant, Mrs. Thompson, she is a business girl. She only did it for you temporarily because while doing it she could go on with her studies while I could help her. She has a very nice position, and while the pay is small, she has a chance to advance, also to learn more of the ways of a business office."

"Oh, well! I suppose I'll get along someday." Mrs. Thompson replied as she left the room. "But I wish I might have kept her."

Acting upon Cora's advice, Nellie was at the office promptly at nine each morning. But it happened more often than not that Mr. Robinson did not appear until ten or after Nellie had overhauled the typewriter, and while she waited for him she either practised to increase her speed, or studied spelling. She was always conscious of the bookkeeper's eyes upon her,

"Anything the matter with me?" She perily asked him one morning.

"No, not that I know of."

"Then stop staring at me. It makes me nervous!"

"I didn't mean to stare," Smith returned in his dull way.

"Don't, then!"

He looks as if he wanted to tell me something, and doesn't or was getting up his courage. He's a queer old thing, not so awfully old either. He just acts as if somebody had set on him and squeezed all the life out of him." She told Cora when questioned about the office.

"Perhaps he's had a hard time," Cora answered slowly. Men do sometimes. We girls are apt to think we're the only ones who have things hard, but a man who doesn't get a hard time often has it even harder I guess, especially if he has a family."

"He's a poor fish! He doesn't dare say his soul's his own when the boss is there. Oh, well! I don't have anything to do with him, so I should worry."

A Guide to What's Good to Get

SOMEONE has said that if bread and butter were new inventions they would have to be advertised before people would accept them as standard articles of food. Even in this progressive age, folks are somewhat wary of leaving the beaten path. They stick pretty close to the things they know, when those things come up to their expectations.

That is why alert merchants and manufacturers strive to tell about their products and their services in the advertising columns of the daily paper. They want you to know what they have to offer, in the belief that when you do know, you will be interested, and perhaps inspired, with some of their own enthusiasm.

Thrifty men and women find that it pays to read the advertisements. It enables them to rest assured that they are not overlooking anything. It lets them know where to locate some desired product or service; where to go for "this" or how to get "that" to best advantage. Without its direction they would overlook much and consequently lose much. They would live in ignorance of many things that might add materially to their wealth, health and happiness.

Make advertising your guide to what's good to get.

Read it---reflect on it---it pays!

Columbus, July 10.—Delegates began arriving early today for the grand encampment of the Odd Fellows, which begins here tomorrow. The encampment is expected to attract 5,000 and 10,000 visiting members of the Order during the week's program.

Early arrivals included J. S. Recorb, London, grand high priest, who is to be installed this week as grand patriarch, succeeding Albert Keckler, Mansfield; Fred A. Hahn, Toledo, president of the grand council, patriarchs militant, F. C. Garret, Dayton, grand scribe and Mrs. Josephine Hahn, Toledo, president of the auxiliaries.

Business session of the department council of the patriarchs, meetings of the auxiliaries, and the mustering of recruits for Junia No. 4, of the auxiliary are important events on today's program. This evening at the coliseum, state fair grounds, the degree of Chivalry will be conferred upon a class of candidates.

BEAUTY CHATS

DAINTY SURROUNDINGS

I think I have told before in this column the story of the woman who was really very homely but who gave everyone the impression that she was beautiful because she surrounded herself with beautiful objects and made her person, her clothes and her home exquisitely dainty. She wasn't rich, in fact she was rather poor. She wasn't particularly intelligent nor even very clever. What she did any woman can do.

Like Mrs. X. every woman wants to seem beautiful. Mrs. X. felt that she was somewhat colorless, having drab color hair and small light eyes, so she introduced color into her home.

ties of paint and enamel, she found many parts of her house unsatisfactory after the rejuvenation. But wherever a room did not entirely please her she put flowers, not ugly rubber plants or stiff palms, but softly hanging ivy and flowers with color full blooms. In the Summer she made herself a quaint old-fashioned garden. For her clothes she chose, not sombre black nor trying brown, but soft and dainty colorings.

I. L. T. W.—Rosy cheeks depend upon so many things it is impossible to give a formula that would help you attain them. Often when the skin lacks color it is because of too little oxygen in the blood and deeper breathing, or more exercise that induces deep breathing, will correct the trouble.

Thin—Cocoa butter is nourishing and will assist you in filling out the hollows, but, since you are very thin all over, it is best to build up your general health and increase your weight. Drink plenty of milk and other nourishing liquids.

Auburn Hair—If you have been eating a great many strawberries this season it would account for this rash that many people are afflicted with at present. A cure means to simplify the diet for a few days and drink plenty of water. An occasional fast for 24 hours, while plenty of water is taken, will help clear the system and rid the complexion of blemishes.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE THLEPS

Chapter 18

longer would she be a drag on Cora; no longer would she have to help Mrs. Thompson with the housework—work she detested, but which she had been obliged to do. Mrs. Thompson grumbled, wished Nellie hadn't got a job.

"I'll pay you most as much beside room and board if you'll give me all your time," she said.

Nellie thanked her, but refused. To the girls she said.

"Give her all my time! Don't I know what that means! All day and all the night!" Mrs. Thompson's all right, but no boarding house for me.

She must think I am a fool to give up my easy job, my short hours in an office to work in her kitchen. I'd rather be dead, honest would. I'd rather teach me. But never again!

"You are so neat, Nellie, and so quick. No wonder Mrs. Thompson wants you. It is awful hard, I guess, to get good servants in a house like this. Everything is so old and dingy."

Gladys had hit upon the truth.

It was nearly impossible for Mrs. Thompson to keep servants and Nellie's neatness, her good nature had been a godsend. When she talked with Cora about it, she was in tears.

"I knew it wouldn't last, but I kept hoping it would," she whined.

"But Nellie isn't a servant. Mrs. Thompson, she is a business girl. She only did it for you temporarily because while doing it she could go on with her studies while I could help her. She has a very nice position, and while the pay is small, she has a chance to advance, also to learn more of the ways of a business office."

"Oh, well! I suppose I'll get along someday." Mrs. Thompson replied as she left the room. "But I wish I might have kept her."

Acting upon Cora's advice, Nellie was at the office promptly at nine each morning. But it happened more often than not that Mr. Robinson did not appear until ten or after Nellie had overhauled the typewriter, and while she waited for him she either practised to increase her speed, or studied spelling. She was always conscious of the bookkeeper's eyes upon her,

"Anything the matter with me?" She perily asked him one morning. "No, not that I know of."

"Then stop staring at me. It makes me nervous!"

"I didn't mean to stare," Smith returned in his dull way.

"Don't, then!"

He looks as if he wanted to tell me something, and doesn't or was getting up his courage. He's a queer old thing, not so awful old either. He just acts as if somebody had set on him and squeezed all the life out of him." She told Cora when questioned about the office.

"Perhaps he's had a hard time," Cora answered slowly. Men do sometimes. We girls are apt to think we're the only ones who have things hard, but a man who doesn't get ahead much often has it even harder I guess especially if he has a family."

"He's a poor fish! He doesn't dare say his soul's his own when the boss is there. Oh, well! I don't have anything to do with him, so I should worry."

A Guide to What's Good to Get

SOMEONE has said that if bread and butter were new inventions they would have to be advertised before people would accept them as standard articles of food. Even in this progressive age, folks are somewhat wary of leaving the beaten path. They stick pretty close to the things they know, when those things come up to their expectations.

That is why alert merchants and manufacturers strive to tell about their products and their services in the advertising columns of the daily paper. They want you to know what they have to offer, in the belief that when you do know, you will be interested, and perhaps inspired, with some of their own enthusiasm.

Thrifty men and women find that it pays to read the advertisements. It enables them to rest assured that they are not overlooking anything. It lets them know where to locate some desired product or service; where to go for "this" or how to get "that" to best advantage. Without its direction they would overlook much and consequently lose much. They would live in ignorance of many things that might add materially to their wealth, health and happiness.

Make advertising your guide to what's good to get.

Read it...reflect on it...it pays!
